Here is some great news from Germany

Hi everybody, the film maker of the "Babajaga, Hexen im Aufwind" ("Babajaga, Witches in Updrafts") film made it possible to all of us to download the whole film free of charge and burn it to a DVD directly from the Internet.

The film was shot at the 2005 Women's World Championships in Klix Germany. The clips from this championship are used in the film as the frame of the story of the long struggle from the beginning of women competitions after the war in the Eastblock countries, mainly Poland, to extending these contest to the western countries with the subsequent recognition of the FAI to call these contests "European Women Championships". But it wasn't until 2001 after a 33 year long struggle to have these contests recognized as "Women's World Championships. (Sadly no American woman ever participated).

I was at the 2005 World Championship as the official translator and I am also responsible for the English subtitles.

I would suggest that anybody who takes advantage of this offer writes a Thank You note to Thomas Siegel, the film maker, but since he doesn't speak English send the note to me, I will translate it and pass it on to him.

I am very excited that Thomas was so generous.

Happy New Year to all of you

Frauke
